6:00 Meeting called to order by Lynne*

BOARD MEMBERS PRESENT:

Lynne Kuehner, Pam McCready, Karen Puchalsky, Sharon Hess, Kristin Hermann, Jerri Anesetti

OTHER MEMBERS PRESENT:

Ava Noone

BOARD MEMBERS ABSENT:

Barbara Wozniak, Janet Hadden

CORRECTIONS TO SEPTEMBER SECRETARY REPORT:

None. Motion to approve by Pam and Second by Karen.

CORRESPONDENCE:

Omega Fields contacted us - would WPDA be willing to sign on with them. If a member order products (Omega Horse shine, sugar free treats etc.) and uses our code – we would get a 15% discount which could be split with the member. Sample products are available. There is no contract or time/amount stipulation. They put a banner on our website with a link to their website. A motion was made by Pam M to move forward with Omega Fields and second by Karen P. Krista made a motion to split the discount evenly with the members – (the club would get 7.5% and the member would get 7.5% off ), second by Pam and both approved by all.

EDUCATION:

Proposed for next year: On the Levels, a non-riding clinic with USDF CD and a clinician commentary. Maybe get Triple Crown or Agway to come and do a talk on nutrition and subsidize the event. Freestyle clinic by Lunatunes was suggested by Lynne. They are reasonable and could spark some interest in freestyle for next year.

HOSPITALITY:

November 2: Bella Fruitetta, Barb

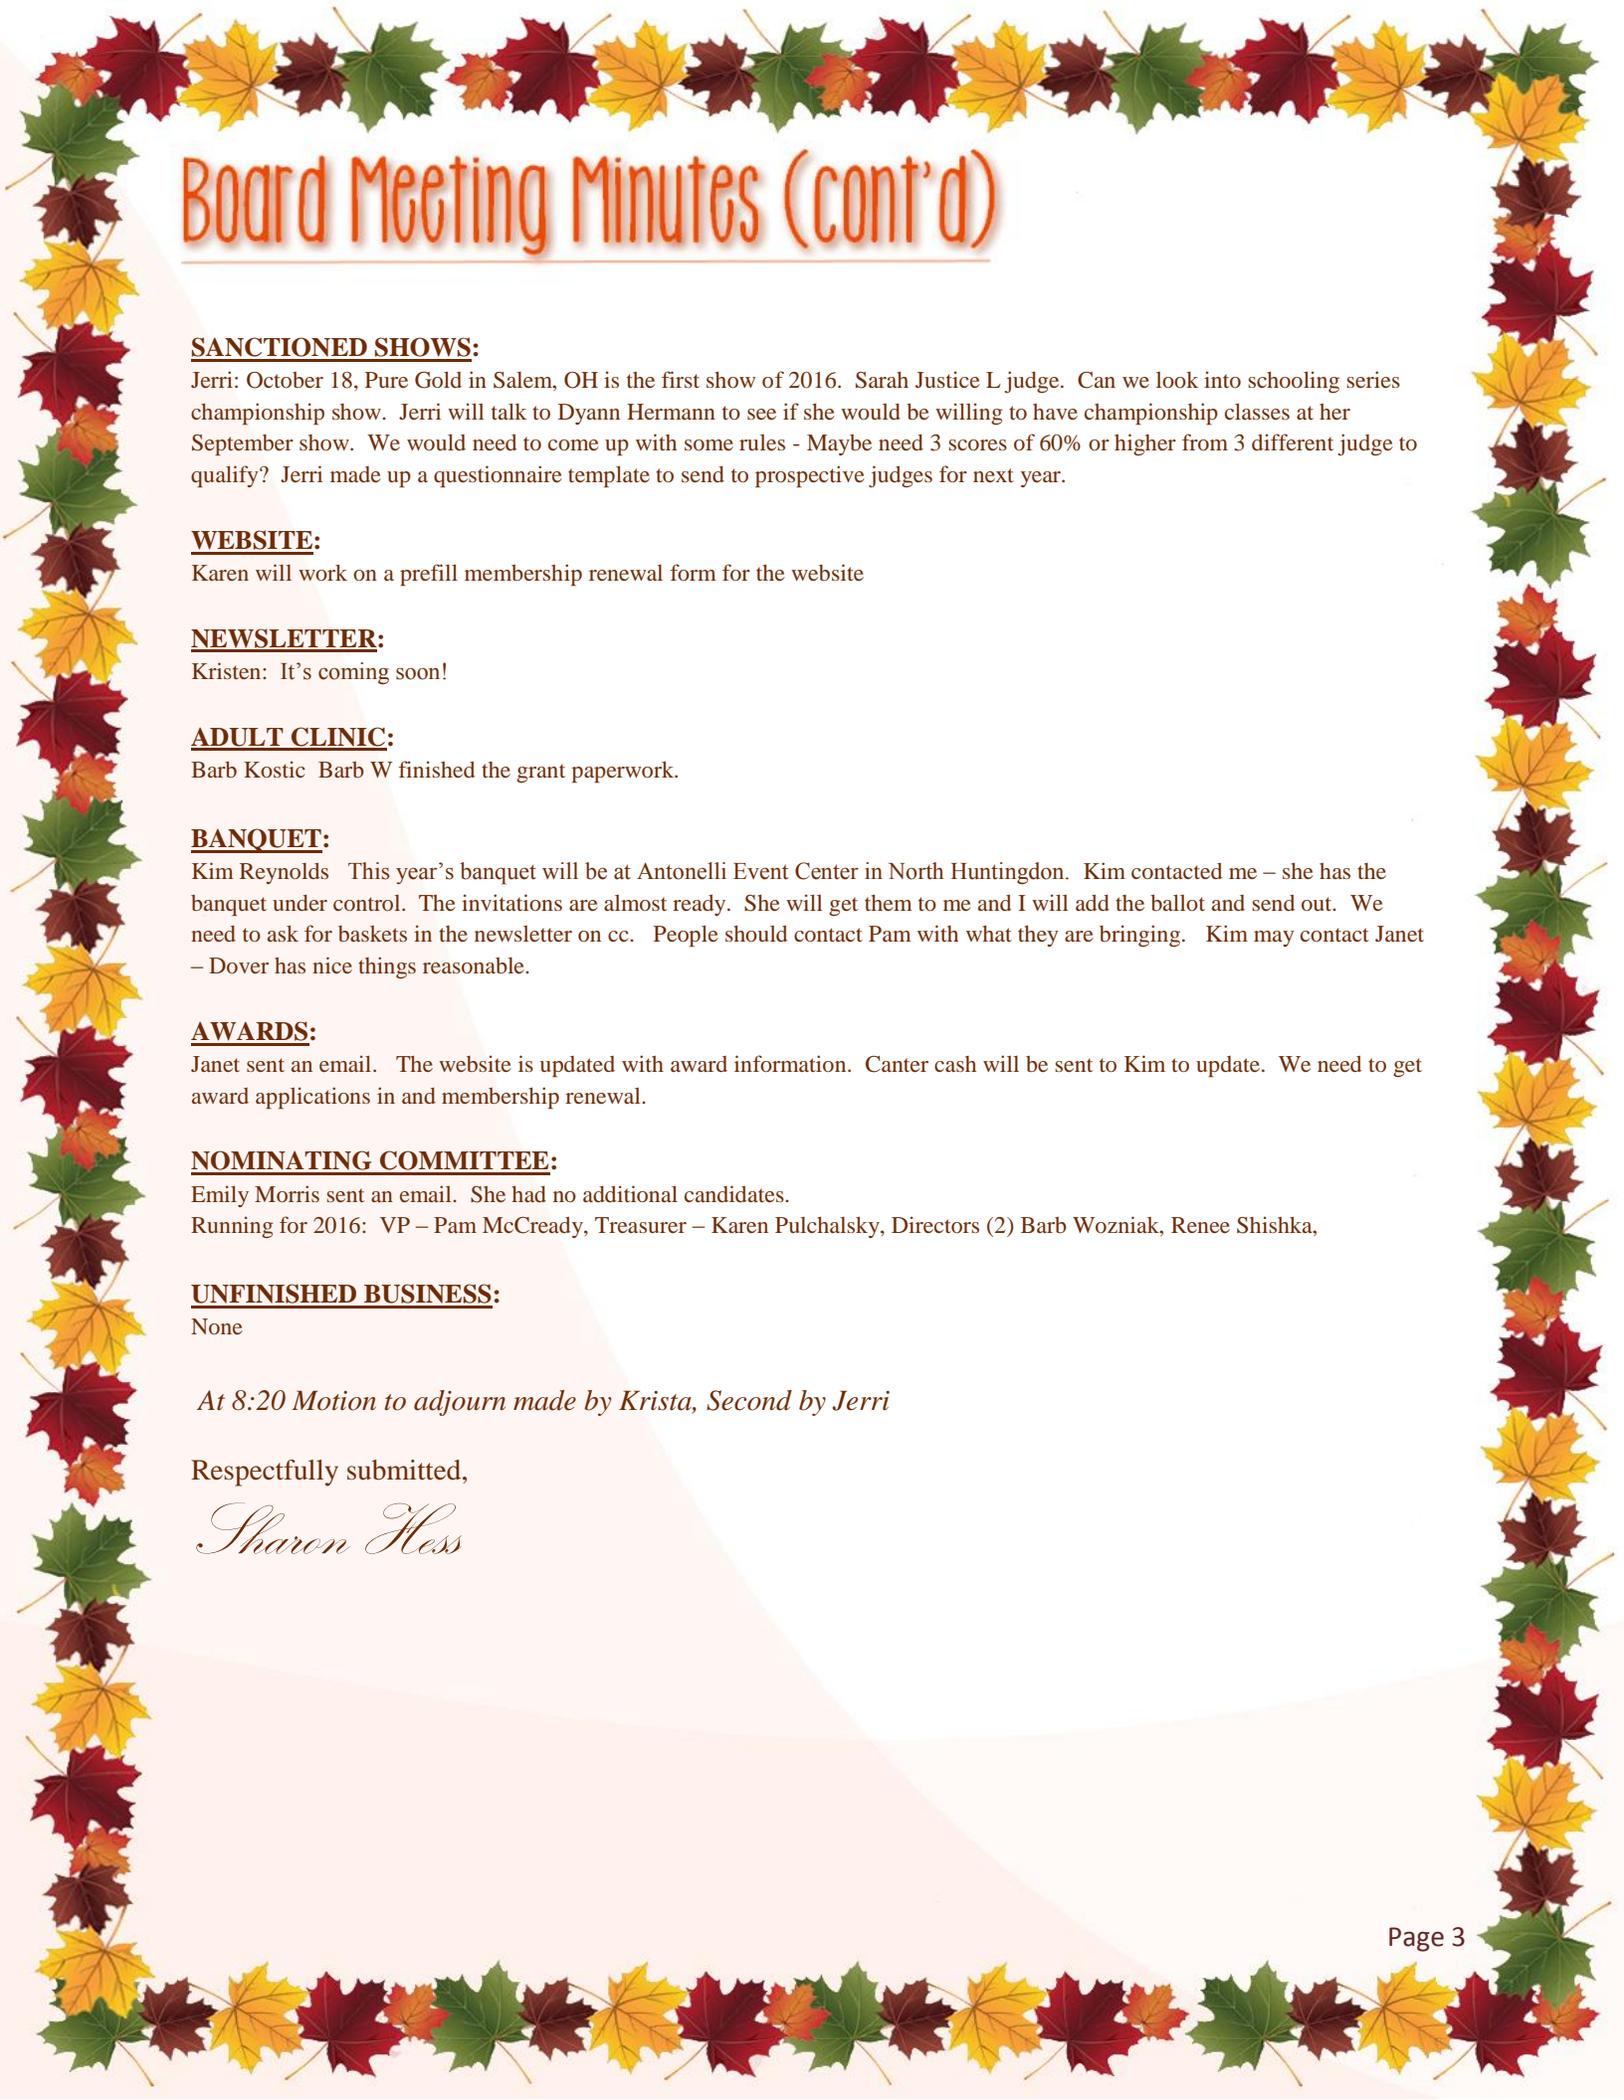

December 7: Tambellini, Bridgeville, Janet to confirm

MEMBERSHIP:

137 Total, 102 I, 27 Jr/YR, 8 F. Of these 38 are new and 9 are 3 year memberships. Membership runs Jan 1 through December 31. If running, must pay dues before the election.

RECOGNIZED SHOWS:

Next year's shows will be June 4/5 and July 30/31. Based on the rides that we had at the August show, if we added $10.00 to the class fee, we would have made $1100.00 more. We need to increase fees since the cost of the facility is 5x Grandhaven. We will try to get better rates at the hotels as well. We need to raise our show fee comparable to other shows nearby (NODA, Morven, Loch Moy, NJ). There were some complaints about the warm up area – we can make the lunging area an additional warmup and have lunging at designated times only.

"No Foot, No Horse"

Last time I talked about thrush, a problem that can be identified and initially treated by your farrier, but ultimately the everyday treatment and care was up to you the horse owner. Now we will discuss an issue that is more commonly seen by the owner first, but takes the farrier and the owner working together to eliminate, hoof wall cracks and wall separations. They can be two total separate issues, but most often you see them together. Cracks, in my opinion, can have four separate causes, (1) Poor hoof quality (2) An imbalance of the hoof, (3) An underlying infection in the hoof wall and (4) An injury to the hairline.

Cracks associated with poor hoof quality are generally superficial and don't cause any soundness issues, but that doesn't mean they should be ignored. They have the potential of becoming a larger problem if not attended to. These are the most difficult to address, because the healing must come from the inside out, with some additional attention to the outside. Your horse may be lacking something in its diet that may be hindering its ability to produce solid hoof wall. A grain supplement may be necessary to help this issue. Sometimes it feels like I am asked at least once every day, about hoof supplements. It's understandable why. There seems to be hundreds of them on the market today. I'm often asked, do they work? Well, they probably all work, but will it work with your horse's body chemistry? Where was the product tested? If tested on a group of ranch Quarter horses in south western Texas, living on sage brush and living in sand lots no, chances are it will not work for your off the track Thoroughbred in south western PA. So, then I'm asked which one is the best? Again, good question. The tough part is that you're not going to start seeing results from a supplement for 6 to 9 months, since its coming from the inside out and only new growth is going to benefit from it. I understand, you don't want to be throwing money away for months only to realize it's not doing anything. But unfortunately, that's how it has to be done. I will say that I have seen the most consistent results from "Farriers Formula®". I had the opportunity to attend a continuing education clinic, put on by the American Association of Professional Farriers, hosted by Life Data Labs® the makers of Farriers Formula®, this year and not only was given a tour of the plant but also I got to hear how it was developed. I have seen other brands of hoof supplements come and go, but Farriers Formula® has been around the longest.

They must be doing something right. (Sorry, didn't mean to turn into a commercial, but it was an impressive visit, if you're interested in hearing more about it, just shoot me an e-mail.) Now, for the outside of the hoof. If your horse has superficial cracks and you want to do something about them while your horse grows new hoof, on its new supplement, then by all means do so. What can be done is to try to keep the cracks as clean as possible. That doesn't mean don't turn your horse out so its feet will not get dirty. Turn out, for exercise, is just as important as a good diet. What I mean is take the time to clean out the cracks with a good stiff brush, so the oxygen can get in there and kill any harmful bacteria that may cause the crack to become a bigger issue. I used to recommend "Tuff Stuff®" or something similar for a topical application when a horse had cracks, but now I've gone a bit holistic and instead of covering the crack with something that is going to trap bacteria in I recommend a "conditioner". Use something that designed to kill bacteria. My product of choice is "Farriers Finish®" made by. . . you guessed it, "Life Data Labs®". I know, back to the commercial. Sorry, but they are all about the horse and they make a good product. Again, just my opinion. Moving on.....

(toe crack that has underlying infection)

Cracks that are caused by imbalance are more of the farrier's realm. First the cause of the imbalance has to be identified. Is it caused by a conformational defect or deviation? When trimming and shoeing a new horse for the first time I try to do a whole horse evaluation. Farriers tend to look at feet first, but I try to start at the top (the hips, back and shoulders) and going down. I look for conformational defects, because they will dictate how the feet takes shape as they grow. Most time, if I come across a significant crack on a bare foot horse, I will find a deviation in the leg. Has the horse had a recent leg, back, shoulder, hip injury? If so, that may have caused the horse bare weight and travel differently which in turn put him/her out of balance and a crack developed. If an imbalance is the cause, then it is the farrier's job to try to center the foot under that deviation so weight is distributed evenly and to try to get the foot landing as level as possible. The area where the crack is should also have any pressure alleviated. In between shoeings the owner needs to keep the crack clean and treated. It takes multiple trimmings and shoeings to eliminate the issue.

I hate to say it, but imbalanced cracks can be due to incorrect or poor farrier practices. How do you know? Farriers are not going to intentional cause the problem. Why would we want to make more work for ourselves? But, once a crack has been identified does your farrier make every effort to help eliminate the issue? If not, then even if the imbalance crack wasn't initially the farriers fault then it becomes their fault. There is a vast number of resources for farriers to use to combat imbalance cracks. If the crack turns out to be tougher than your farrier can handle then they should call in help from another farrier that has more experience with dealing with cracks. There are farriers that base their whole business on dealing with cracks. With that being said, you the client/horse owner must be willing to compensate the farrier for the extra time, effort and materials used in treating the problem.

The next cause of cracks is the one dealing with hoof wall separations and infections. This can be an even lengthier discussion so I'll leave it until next time.

Pure Gold Stables

*Interview by Kristin Hermann with Pure Gold's event coordinator Laura Kosiorek -
Smith*

How long has Pure Gold been open?
Pure Gold Stables has been newly reopened (via new ownership) for about a year.

Was it a riding stable prior to being Pure Gold? Or a racing stable? I see it has a race track?

The facility was built about 11 years or so ago. The wife had western pleasure horses and the husband "attempted" to start some young Thoroughbreds, they are no longer involved with horses or the property.

Whose vision was it to open and why? I hear there are four investors, do they ride horses?

The facility was purchased by a group of investors sight unseen as potential acreage to be leased in the oil and gas industry. Once they set foot on the property they began discussing other opportunities as a true equestrian center. The investors (aside from one) have absolutely no horse experience or knowledge what so ever, but are willing to learn and work with select equestrians in the area. They attend shows and clinics as often as they can, and enjoy socializing with spectators and competitors. They love to listen to not only the good, but really take to heart what people want to see at the facility and how to improve it.

Is Pure Gold focusing on dressage, hunters, eventing or all?

Pure Gold doesn't specialize in one riding discipline. We really pride ourselves in a facility that is open to people who want to simply enjoy their horse, and to people who show heavily, plus everything in between. We have barn trips to various venues and parks to trail ride, some go to hunter jumper shows, some go to dressage shows, some drive their horses, and some do nothing but groom their horse in the barn and hand graze. It really varies but it makes for a good time! The staff makes for a great, educated team too.

I see you are doing a dressage clinic with Ronald J. Postleb is he a popular clinician in your area?

Ron is actually from the New York area and was suggested as a clinician in June for our Adult Dressage camp. Riders, horses, and auditors adored him so we decided to invite him back for a second clinic. He has been classically trained in Germany. General riding *education* from someone such as Ron offers is worth just as much as a masters or doctoral degree. He also has more than 35 years of international training experience in Germany, Canada, USA, Mexico and South Korea.

What other clinicians have you had and plan to have?

It is my goal to get a well known hunter/jumper clinician in, as well as an eventer. We will also get a natural horsemanship person in as well. There are a lot of varied riding interests in this area and we want to offer all disciplines.

Do you have lesson horses for lessons?

We offer both the "bring your own horse" type of lessons as well as lessons on our own "lesson horses". Our lesson horses are not owned by the "barn" per say....they are owned by boarders who graciously allow us to use them in our lesson program. Lessons range from beginner to more advanced fine tuning or show prep.

How long have you worked at Pure Gold as Events Manager? What other events do you have planned?

I was hired April of this year, and asked immediately to put together a successful show schedule! I embraced the challenge and had a small, but successful first show season. Consisting of 2 dressage shows, 1 dressage camp, 2 hunter/jumper shows, and 2 combined tests. This winter's schedule includes a jumper series, a few "ride-a-test" type dressage clinic/shows, clinics, and fun shows). The ENTIRE facility is heated so why not!!!

Your barn is heated? And the indoor arena? These are amazing amenities, what are your other favorite amenities.

The facility is so lavish, I mean come on....it belongs in Ocala or something ~ lol. The main barn features 14x14 matted stalls with Nelson automatic water systems...both get cleaned twice daily. Horses get turned out in lush grass pastures. They have trails wide enough to accommodate a few horses or a carriage. There is a covered round pen perfect for starting youngsters. The arenas are always well maintained and the footing is fabulous. The gallop track is perfect for conditioning event horses or fat ponies.....or for students or the timid adults who wants to go on a "trail ride" without being out in the open.....I could go on and on... There is a list of amenities on our website.... (And, Kristin Hermann adds, that the board is extremely reasonable!)

Do you own a horse and keep it at Pure Gold?

Unfortunately I do not have a horse at PG. I keep my 5 horses at home where they live outside 24/7. My husband and I are in the process of building a house-barn (barn on bottom house on top). It is nearing completion. PG currently has a wait list now that winter is upon us but when there is an empty stall I will bring my horses over to play.

What is the future vision for Pure Gold?

PG will be the next quaint show facility. It can accommodate just about any genre of riding. There are plans to put a hedge around the outdoor, much like arenas in Europe. In addition to building a cross country course through novice (with some upper jumps such as a level bank, ditch and water... We are also adding additional pastures with run-ins. We are so excited to see what the future holds!

Thank you

Dear WPDA,

What a great year I had training and competing my horse. I may not have added many ribbons to my "collection" this year but I did store up a lot of little moments which have been a great blessing. I'd like to thank a few of you for making my life or that of my daughter's better (in no particular order).

Thank you – to express gratitude or appreciation

- Jerri Anesetti – for always having a smile on your face and putting others before yourself
- Emily Hadden-Morris – for coordinating the WPDA Adult-Team at Lake Erie College – what a blast it is to compete as part of a team
- Brooke Burchianti – for encouraging Grace, making an effort to watch us ride, and being a great role model for my tween
- Pam McCready – for your generosity in loaning Grace a dressage saddle for a week so she could compete more effectively
- Tina Vensel – for showing Grace how to make pom poms and encouraging other areas of interest
- Nina Catanzarite – for a general offer of assistance if I needed it at the last show
- Mandy Collier Lindsay – for sharing judging stories and looking on the bright side
- Lindsay Saad – for making me feel completely welcome at the Virginia Horse Center when you marched yourself right up to me and introduced yourself; that confidence is a gift
- Nina Teff – for hauling the pony to Dressage 4 Kids and always helping others
- Emma Teff – being a kind competitor and encouraging your friends
- Becky Darney – always offering to do a Starbucks run
- Robin Birk – for volunteering at the VADA show and leading by example. I am also grateful for your offer to loan me your saddle when my tree broke at the competition.

For the countless others who offered a hand, spoke encouragement, or offered a smile; I very much appreciate it.

Gratefully,

Kim Baiert

Congratulations

to our wpda award recipients!

Fantasia, owned by Linda Toll and Victoria Patterson Pirko, competed by Victoria (pictured above) this year earned some was 41st in the country for Second Level Open and was 5th in the Second Level Vintage Cup rider. In the ISR/Oldenburger Assn. Breed awards she was Reserve Champion in the Second Level Open and was Champion for the Second Level Vintage Cup.

"This year, I, Emily Morris took my 5 year-old Hanoverian (pictured below) to the Devon breed show. My horse last year was bucking Cowboys off and he is a handful... I rode against a lot of well trained horses ridden by professionals and placed 5th in both very big classes (suitability judged gaits, confirmation and disposition) and got called back 3rd. In materials it's judged on gaits for dressage he got a 77.2, missing second by one point! It was a dream come true to ride in the Dixon oval and I plan to ride there again! It's was crazy and busy and there is no PM lunging so riding with wind rain and baby horses all over was interesting... I met a lot of wonderful people and had a blast! I will be taking him in 2016 and plan to start his brother off in 2017! It was an amazing time!"

HORSES

Coventry Equestrian Center has two horses for lease ~ one is an easy First Level horse (gelding), the other is a Training Level horse (mare). Both are well mannered and do all lateral work and would easily move up the levels with a competent rider. Both jump, the gelding was a three foot A show circuit hunter and could be leased for jumping as well. I would consider an off site lease for both. Photos and videos available. Both are thoroughbreds. Leases at Coventry are available and can include dressage lessons and/ or jumping lessons with our trainers.
